Boy Scout Troop 219

Boy Scout Troop 219 of North Torrance terminated the summer with their annual Father-Son Campout on Sept. 9-10, and a fireside Court of Honor a week later.

Father-Son Campout was held at O'Neil State Park in Trabuco Oaks Canyon of the Santa Ana Mountains. Committeeman Russell Cholly was in charge of site selection and transportation. Activities the first day consisted of assembling camp, games, and scoutcraft instruction. Several boys assisted the ranger in charge with a conservation project.

Sunday morning the Scouts, led by Chaplain Dan LaCoe, conducted religious services and then completed nature projects. Camp was struck before noon and the boys and their fathers returned to Torrance after lunch. Scouts, and their respective fathers, who attended were Jr. Assistant Scoutmaster Dyrck Van Dusen, Senior Patrol Leader John Lindsay, Scouts Fred Ashley, James Cholly, Larry Cholly, Dan LaCoe, Paul Marsh, Roy Myers, and Jesse Salcido, given to the boys as mementos of the hike.

ADVANCEMENT Chairman Ray Myers and Scoutmaster Clifford LaCoe conducted the award ceremony around the fire circle. Merit badges were awarded to Dan LaCoe for hiking and camping; to John Lindsay for first aid, music, hiking, citizenship in the nation, and nature; and to Dyrck Van Dusen for life saving, hiking, cooking, and camping.

Ron Myers received his first class badge and miniature pin for his mother. Dan LaCoe was presented his star scout insignia and star pin for his mother. The first Life Scout rank of the present troop 219 was awarded to Jon Lindsay, with the heart-shaped life pin for his mother.

JAMES CHOLLY received his one-year service pin, and Jesse Salcido was eligible for his two-year pin.

Two special awards were made by the Scoutmaster. Dan LaCoe was appointed a Junior Assistant Scoutmaster and given the insignia. Paul Marsh received his Den Chief Warrant and shoulder cord. He will work with the Cubs of 310-C.

For boys in the Casimir and Lincoln School areas, Troop 219 is sponsored by the Torrance Kiwanis Club.

County Fair, Hailed Greatest Success of All, in Final Days

The curtain will ring down Sunday night (Oct. 1) on the 34th annual Los Angeles County Fair, undoubtedly one of the most successful of them all, as prospects indicate that the attendance goal of 1,200,000 will be reached by a safe margin.

That the exposition may close in a blaze of glory, the program for the remaining days is replete with special events and attractions as colorful as they are exciting.

The highlight of the finale comes Sunday afternoon at 2 with a huge parade of 17 high school and youth bands. During the afternoon there will be two free performances on the stage in front of the grandstand of "Circusana" and one show Sunday at 7 p.m., plus a continuous round of entertainment on the stage of the new amphitheatre and at the gay Mexican Village.

IN THE 800-Foot long Palace of Agriculture, where California's agricultural and horticultural wealth, natural resources and recreational advantages are displayed by nearly 100 counties and communities, the exhibits have been refurbished with fresh fruits, flowers and vegetables from the huge refrigerator storage boxes.

More than 200 judges from all over the nation have completed their chores in their respective divisions in the more than 6000 individual competitions of the fair and the work of distributing over $200,000 in prize money has already started.

TRUE TO expectations, the new Storybook Farm is a magnet for the vast majority of fairgoers, young or old. The Court of the Redwoods and the International Building continue to attract capacity crowds while the new amphitheatre is a mecca for visitors seeking relaxing entertainment.

Added events are planned for all areas during the closing weekend. In the Sports Plaza, Vicki Van Hook, champion water skier will perform daily on the marina and will be joined by other outstanding figures of the sports world in various demonstrations.

THE HISTORICAL old steam locomotive, fired up for the first time since its retirement in 1955 after 30 years of service, will puff and toot with extra abandon on its short exhibition run.

New arrangements and displays of exotic flowers mark the final days of the flower show and outdoor living areas. Commercial displays, always an attraction to those wishing to see what is new in the world, are ready for a rush of visitors. The five fallout shelters exhibited on the grounds also anticipate renewed interest.
